

About:

Sunflowers were hardened with crystalized resin, turning a fragile and short-lived flower into a long-lasting object that now defies death. Buddhist prayer monk beads made with ebony (black wood) explores the notion of death and impermanence.

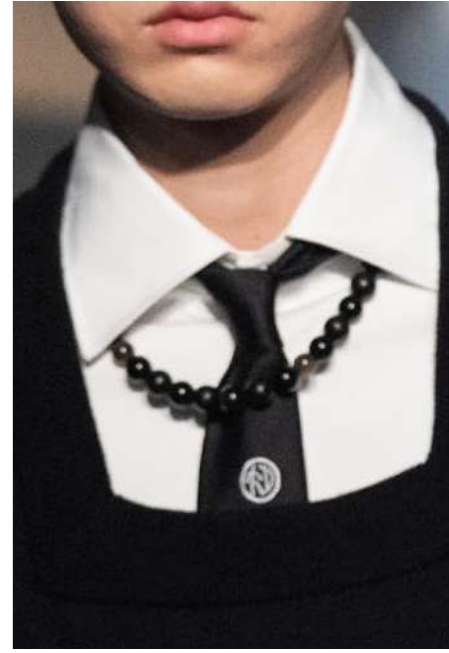

Materials:
Ebony

Yellow Brown Tiger's Eye,
Black Volcanic Lava Rock

Black Snowflake Obsidian,
Black Larvikite

Black Obsidian, Striped Agate, Shungite

Black Obsidian, Jet, Smoky Quartz

About:

A collection of extremely oversized Buddhist prayer monk tassels often used in funerals, made with a 100m length trimming cord explores the notion of death and impermanance. Wooden balls are arranged inside the trimming cord, and the Lillian knit adjustable necklace and horizontal fasteners creates a beautiful flow.

Materials:

Acrylic Twisted Cord ,Twisted Lip Cord Trim, Wood, Brass

About:
A collection of heavy and oversized Buddhist prayer monk beads often used in funerals, made with black obsidian explores the notion of death and impermanence.

Materials:
Ebony